Descriptif

Take the time to pedal, there are superb open views. It's almost like being in the mountains... However, be careful not to make a mistake when following the signs. There are many local circuits (yellow arrows).

When you get close to the finish line, turn around. You are in the heart of a protected area, classified Natura 2000, the Coteaux du Montmorélien. This site stands out for its great botanical wealth with, among other things, more than thirty species of orchids.

Some of the inhabitants of the site wander here and there to keep you company.
Mercurial Agrion, Marsh Copper, Succulent Damier... You can never be sure of coming across one of these rare species on your way.
